How to calculate the freight:

First you have to add up the total weight of your order. In the small table, you will find the individual weights of the selections and hampers. Please note that we have to round up the weight to the next full kilogram, for ex. 1.4 kg would count as 2 kg for the freight charges.

In the large table above, you will find the freight charges per weight for the different destinations. Once you know the weight of your order, you will find the charge for your destination in the row of that particular weight.

Example:

You order a “Burren Smokehouse Selection” to go to an address in England. The selection weighs 2 kg, so you look in the table in the column ‘UK’ for a weight of 2 kg, and you find €23.90.

Let’s say you want to order a 1 kg side of salmon with the selection. This brings the weight to 3 kg, so the freight will be €27.85.
